CONFERENCE ON ETHICS IN AMERICAN LIFE

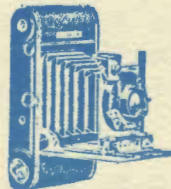

On Saturday, May 9, the Newport Institute will present a conference at Salve Regina on the topic: "The Decline of Ethics in American Life: How Can We Reverse It?"

Offering their views on this timely and important topic will be Ms. Arlene Violet, former Rhode Island Attorney General, and Fr. Francis X. Winters, S.J., of Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service. In addition, Mr. John S. R. Shad, Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, has been invited. Given the speakers, and the topic, an exciting day is anticipated.

The conference will be held in the O'Hare Auditorium from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and is open to the entire College community as well as the general public. Admission is free for students, faculty and staff. Lunch, in Miley, will cost $5.00. For further information, contact Dr. Heath Twichell at extension 249.

FACULTY NEWS

On March 25th, Mr. Edward Lizotte, Finance Controller of the European Stationery Group of the Dennison Corporation, spoke on the topic "The Benefits of a Foreign Language in the Business World". Mr. Lizotte outlined the numerous career possibilities for those possessing foreign language skills. Approximately eighty Spanish and French students attended the lecture. Mr. Lizotte was the guest of Dr. Katherine Leary, chairperson of the French Department.

On March 26th, the French Culture and Civilization class attended a lecture and tour of The Elms which highlighted French decorative art with special emphasis on Louis XIV and Louis XV furniture. Sr. Eugena Poulin arranged this visit and lecture at the invitation of Mr. Tchirch, Director of Education for the Preservation Society.

Dr. Arthur Frankel Professor of Psychology, and Dr. Melvin Snyder, Associate Professor of Psychology at Rutgers University are co-authors of a paper accepted for presentation at the next meeting of the American Psychological Association in New York City. The paper, entitled "Egotism In The Depressed: When Self-Protection Becomes Self-Handicapping" will be presented as part of a four paper symposium on self-defeating behaviors. The symposium is likely to draw attention because of its focus on self-defeating behavior, a term which feminists see as highly controversial because of its conceptual link to masochistic behavior and because of the consideration given by the American Psychological and Psychiatric Associations to its inclusion as a personality disorder in the Revised Diagnostic and Statistical Manual. Lenore Walker of Walker Associates and John Darley of Princeton University will be the symposium's discussants.
