FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

June 1970

Mr. Gregor Giesmann, of the Art Institute of Chicago, a nationally renowned potter, will be conducting courses in pottery and ceramics during the summer session of Salve Regina College, Newport, R.I. Mr. Giesmann, originally from West Berlin, is a graduate of the Cranbrook Academy of Art. His works have been widely exhibited throughout the United States, and have won numerous prizes in both competitive and invitational exhibitions. Several of his pieces are currently on exhibit at the Annual National Show at the Fall River Art Association, Fall River, Massachusetts. While on the Ochre Court campus this summer, Mr. Giesmann intends to construct a stoneware reduction kiln for the Art Department at Salve Regina College.

Mr. Giesmann's courses, Basic Pottery and Stoneware (Art 233) and Advanced Pottery and Stoneware (Art 234), will be offered in both sessions of the summer school. His first session course, combining both beginning and advanced students in one class, will begin on Wednesday, July 1, and continue daily through July 25th. This course may be taken days or evenings by arrangement with the instructor.

In the second summer session (July 27-September 3), these courses will be offered in separate classes according to the student's level of proficiency.
