The Psychology Club sponsored a career night in O'Hare Academic Center, where a group of psychologists discussed their own related fields. Among the speakers were Dr. Tamkin, clinical psychologist from the Veterans Administration Hospital in Providence; Mr. Paterna, a school psychologist from the Fall River Public School System; Mr. Cicciline, administrator of the Newport Mental Health Center; Mr. Flynn from the Newport Employment Security Office; and members of the faculty at Salve: Mr. Hugh Boyle, Dr. Patricia Fontes, Dr. Michael Werle, and Mr. Chet Lupton.

A round-table discussion on "The University Woman - Today and Tomorrow" was held by the Newport Branch, American Association of University Women at Ochre Court. Topics of discussion included the university woman and marriage; education as relevant on graduation; and the educated woman's contribution to society.

A seminar on political science, economics, and world history was given at O'Hare Academic Center by Mr. John F. McManus, staff member of the John Birch Society.

The political, economic, and musical aspects of the film, The Condemned of Altona, were discussed in a symposium at O'Hare Academic Center, as a part of Salve's Christian Life Center FLICKS '70 Series. Speakers were Attorney Andre D. D'Andrea, Mr. Robert J. McKenna, assistant professor of political science, and Sister Mary Lomax, instructor of creative arts.

Salve Regina College president Sister Mary Christopher has helped to launch a series of regional workshops for the Religious personnel at hospitals conducted by the Sisters of Mercy of the Federation throughout the country. As the sociologist on a team that also includes a psychologist, a theologian and a hospital administrator, Sister Christopher addressed 90 attendees at the opening workshop at Sacred Heart College, Belmont, North Carolina. The three-day workshop, entitled "Toward A Common Vision," dealt with the problem areas of today's health apostolate. Through general and small group sessions, the participants considered the available ways and means of maintaining apostolic efficiency in a period of ongoing professional change in the hospital field.

Dr. Lester Carr, vice president of academic affairs, is serving as chairman of the joint Mental Health Clinic-Newport Hospital operational planning committee, which prepared the application for an initial federal staffing grant of $445,920 for the proposed Newport County Comprehensive Mental Health Center. In addition, Dr. Carr is participating in a WPRO Radio panel discussion on "Health in Our Society," moderated by Dr. Peter Mathieu. Dr. Carr can be heard Sunday evening at 10:45 p.m., March 21 and March 28.

Five students are participating in a seminar program on "current attitudes" sponsored by the Naval War College. They are: Denise Lajoie, Marlene Johnston, Chris Luby, Donna Fontes, and Angela DeOrchis. Current problems, both domestic and international, are being discussed by ten seminar groups in a series of six meetings. The groups are composed of Naval War College students, junior officers, officer candidates, and students from Brown University, Pembroke College and the University of Rhode Island, as well as Salve Regina. Discussion topics range from unrest and the draft, to environment and national security, to Vietnam and global involvement.

The Sisters of Mercy recently transferred to the College 111.5 acres in Middletown, and 102.3 acres in Portsmouth. The transfer was made on the condition that the land and buildings shall be used "for educational purposes."

Dr. Michael Werle has been invited to present a two-day workshop in psychomotor therapy at the Forest Hospital Postgraduate Center in Des Plaines, Illinois.

Mr. Robert J. McKenna, assistant professor of political science, addressed the Problems of Democracy class at Rogers High School, where his topic was "The Two-Party System in The United States." Mr. McKenna later spoke to the St. George's School Civics Club on "The Role of The Citizen in Government." He also was a guest lecturer on the Barrington College "Winterim" program, where his subject was "The Current Political Situation in Rhode Island."
