FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Salve Regina College, Newport, R. I., graduated its second class of male students today (September 9, 1971) in ceremonies at the school's Ochre Point Avenue campus.

Among the total 58 graduates were from received bachelor of science degrees in law enforcement.

Those who received associate in science degrees, also in law enforcement, included

Sister Mary Christopher, R.S.M, president of Salve Regina College, presided at the ceremony and conferred both baccalaureate and associate degrees.

Herbert F. DeSimone, assistant secretary for environment and urban systems, U.S. Department of Transportation, unanimously selected by the class, was main speaker. Inspector John G. Glendinning, Jr., who received his baccalaureate degree summa cum laude, was class orator.

A reception for graduates and their families followed the formal awarding of degrees.

Salve Regina's Law Enforcement Degree Program is an adult-oriented endeavor, closely allied with Rhode Island's law enforcement needs and objectives. On the baccalaureate degree level, there are subspecialties in such areas as youth services, delinquency, police administration and community relations. Classes are scheduled at the main campus in Newport as well as at other branch campus locations throughout the State.
