PEACE CORPS PLACEMENT TEST TO BE GIVEN AT SALVE REGINA COLLEGE

On Saturday, November 21, at 9 a. m.

in Angelus Hall on the Salve Regina College campus, the Peace Corps Placement Test will be given, primarily for students of the College.

In response to requests from interested students, arrangements have been made for this special on-campus administration of the non-competitive test used in assisting in the placement of potential volunteers. These test results are used only to help find the most appropriate assignment for each applicant and, hence, there are no passing or failing grades.

The General Aptitude Test is composed of three different types of problems: verbal, mathematical, and spatial. The Modern Language Aptitude Test is designed to provide an indication of one's probable degree of success in learning to speak and understand a foreign language. French and Spanish Tests are available, also, for those already having a knowledge of one of these languages.

This Special On-Campus Placement

Test is designed for students applying for Peace Corps projects which begin after graduation. In addition to the more than 8,000 Americans who will go into training in 1965, 1,000 juniors will enter summer 1965 training to begin preparing for overseas assignments in 1966 after completion of their senior year.

Because of the interest in the Peace Corps as well as overseas mission work, it is expected that a large number of Salve Regina students will take advantage of the on-campus test tomorrow.
