CHRISTOPHER KIERNAN NAMED ACADEMIC DEAN

President Sister Lucille McKillop has named Christopher M. Kiernan as Academic Dean.

Mr. Kiernan, currently the Vice President/Students, has been serving as the Acting Academic Dean at Salve Regina since the beginning of the 1985-86 academic year. He will retain the title of Vice President while adding that of Academic Dean.

Mr. Kiernan joined Salve Regina College as Assistant to the President and Dean of Admissions in 1980. His responsibilities included the development of a comprehensive admissions plan which focused on all aspects and strategies of recruitment, student selection and the distribution of financial aid. He worked in that capacity until 1982. With the College's enrollment objectives achieved, he was then named Vice President/Students. Since that time he has worked with Dr. Sheila Megley, R.S.M., Salve Provost and Academic Vice President, to ensure the integration of all academic and student services. Sister Sheila Megley will retain the position of Provost, responsible for all institutional planning.

In accepting his new position, Vice President Kiernan stated, "I am quite pleased to have the opportunity to continue the work already undertaken by the past and present faculty and administrators of Salve Regina to develop a comprehensive curriculum befitting one of the best colleges in the nation."

A graduate of Assumption College in Worcester, Massachusetts, Mr. Kiernan also received his Master of Arts there in 1970. He is a doctoral degree candidate at Boston College. Mr. Kiernan resides in Newport with his wife, Margaret, and daughters, Kathleen, Coleen, Marlene and Christine.

To add greater realism and impact to the lecture, he will wear the uniform of a Soviet officer and will address the audience as if he were a dedicated Communist. Dr. Holman will then change his role and analyze the Soviet Union from the perspective of an American historian.

Dr. Holman is currently Professor of Defense Economics and Decision Making at the Naval War College and an Adjunct Professor in the Economics Department at Salve Regina. He holds a Ph.D. in Russian History from Georgetown University and graduated in 1984 from the College of Naval Warfare with Highest Distinction. He lectures extensively here and abroad.

During the winter break Father Eugene Hillman of the graduate faculty of Salve Regina went to Germany as a guest of West German Radio in Cologne. He was there as a consultant for a program dealing in depth with the origin, meaning and significance of Liberation Theology. As part of the program he was interviewed with particular reference to the emergence of Liberation Theology in Africa.

A new two-volume work by Deane William Ferm, Third World Liberation Theologies (Orbis Books), contains selections from Father Hillman's writings, and lists him as one of the eight liberation theologians of Africa; he is the only white among them. Nine liberation theologians are listed for Asia, and ten for Latin America.

MAIR-DAVIS MUSIC FOR GUITAR AND MANDOLIN TO BE HEARD AT NOON CONCERT

Marilynn Mair and Mark Davis bring their unique chamber music sound to Salve Regina's Noon Concert Series on Wednesday, February 5. Since 1975 the Mair-Davis Duo has performed chamber music recitals for guitar and mandolin throughout the U.S. and Europe. Their first record album, "Music for Guitar and Mandolin," has won them international praise for their skillful and sensitive performance. It was chosen as one of the "Dozen Best Recordings of 1981" by Guitar and Lute magazine. A second record of Latin American music, "Picaflor," has been released on the Titanic label and is already gathering acclaim.

The Duo recently returned from a seven-month European tour where they delighted audiences at music festivals in England, Italy, France, and Spain. The Duo performs a wide variety of chamber music including Baroque, Classical, Contemporary and Latin-American repertoire.

Their program at the Noon Concert Series will be held at Cecilia Hall in Carey Mansion. The free concerts, which are presented on the first Wednesday of each month, are open to the public. Patrons are invited to bring a lunch for the one-hour performance. For further information contact the Music Department at extension 445.
