FOUR SALVE REGINA STUDENTS INAUGURATE COLLEGE'S JUNIOR-YEAR-ABROAD PROGRAM.

Four French majors from Salve
Regina College are leaving for France today to inaugurate the College's Junior-Year-Abroad program.

They are: Nancy Davis, daughter of Mrs. William Davis, 178 Shawmut St., Fall River, Mass.; Patricia DeLisle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard R. DeLisle, 79 Welfare Ave., Warwick, R.I.; Marcia Goulding, daughter of Mr. John B. Goulding, 2
No. Orchard St., New Bedford, Mass.; and Mirene Hazebrouck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon G. Hazebrouck, 615 Mendon Rd., Woonsocket, R.I.

The seven senior colleges operated by the Sisters of Mercy of the Union, including Salve Regina, have established the Mercy Colleges' Extension Program in France which will enable French majors in these colleges to spend a year abroad at the Catholic University of Angers in Anjou, France.

It is a one-year program for the student concentrating in French language, literature, and civilization and/or French social studies. Students will be selected each year on the basis of competence in the study of French, maturity and adaptability, and seriousness of purpose.

The representatives from Salve Regina listed above will join with hundreds of students going abroad sailing on the S. S. Aurelia today, September 9, arriving in France September 18th. While on board they will participate in a ten-day orientation program sponsored by the Council on Student Travel.

Upon arrival the students from the Mercy colleges will spend a month's orientation with Sister Mary Julie, R. S. M., director of the Extension Program, including excursions to Paris and the chateau country. Classes will start in October and run into June.

Sister Mary Nolasco, R. S. M., of the French Department at Salve Regina College is the campus coordinator of the program.
