SALVE REGINA COLLEGE PROFESSOR AWARDED FULBRIGHT SCHOLARSHIP

John C. Corrigan of Fall River, a member of the departments of philosophy, theology, and English literature at Salve Regina College in Newport, has been awarded a U.S. Government grant under the Fulbright-Hays Act to study philosophical theology at the Institut Supérieur de Philosophie of the University of Louvain, Belgium.

The one-year fellowship covers transportation, tuition, educational materials, and living costs. It is administered for the Department of State by the United States Education Foundation in Belgium, and may be extended or renewed at the Foundation's discretion.

Mr. Corrigan is an alumnus of the Portsmouth Priory and of the College of the Holy Cross. He holds master's degrees in both literature and philosophy from the Graduate School of Boston College, has studied at the Harvard Law School, and will shortly receive a Licentiate in Philosophy (Ph. L.) from the Pontifical Faculty of Philosophy at Weston College of the Holy Spirit. Since joining the faculty at Salve Regina, in February of 1965, he has taught courses in metaphysics, philosophical anthropology, and world literature, and has directed seminars in existential theology, the philosophy of freedom, and the philosophy of community.

A member of several civic and professional societies, Mr. Corrigan served during the past year as a consultant to New Visions for Newport County, the local anti poverty agency.

Mr. Corrigan is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John C. Corrigan of Fall River. He plans to sail for Europe in the early Fall, and will begin his studies at Louvain, after a short orientation period in Brussels, in late September.
