RIC PROFESSOR WILL SPEAK AT SALVE ART EXHIBIT

T. Steven Tegu, assistant professor of modern languages at Rhode Island College, will be the featured speaker at Salve Regina College's traditional Christmas Art Exhibit. The exhibit, to be mounted in Ochre Court and running from Friday through Monday, will consist of works executed by students of the college's art department.

Mr. Tegu, whose Monday evening talk at 7 p. m. will officially close the event, will speak on the Photographic Arts. He will also display and comment on the history and execution of his collection of flags of the world all hand sewn by him.

Sister Mary Mercedes, R. S. M., art director, will formally open the exhibit at 3 p. m. on Friday with words of introduction and a brief talk on the nature of the contributing classes.

Watercolors, oil paintings, ceramics and craft work by the Art Education classes will be on display.
