Salve Regina College's Mother-Daughter Weekend sponsored by the Student Nurse Organization will be held April 19 and 20. This year, the annual event is open to the entire student body for the first time.

After registration Saturday morning, mothers and daughters will attend various classes, scheduled especially for the occasion. That afternoon, by arrangement with the Preservation Society of Newport, mothers and daughters will tour either the Breakers, the Elms or the Marble House. The evening's agenda includes a cocktail hour between five and six o'clock followed by dinner at the Coachman in Tiverton.

Entertainment, provided by the Rhode Island Civic Chorale and orchestra and The Burke Family Singers, and set in Belcourt Castle will highlight the day's activities. This program is open to the public.

Mothers and their daughters will attend Mass together Sunday morning in O'Hare. At the Communion Breakfast following, the students will present their mothers with a favor to serve as a weekend remembrance.

Plans for the weekend were formulated by the officers and class representatives of the S.N.O. Officers include:

Mel Kolkmeier-president; Diane Guillet-vice-president; Jeannine Heneault-Treasurer; Betsy Terlep-corresponding secretary; and Carol Scappiticci-recording secretary.

The class representatives to S.N.O. include: seniors Maureen O'Connor and Mrs. Helen Ryan, juniors Cindy Cyr and Diane Danis, sophomores Lynn Zimmerman and Paula Walker, and freshmen Stephanie Bowler and Dale Bellida. Miss Helen Maloof is faculty advisor.

The Student Nurses Organization functions to further Salve Regina's prominence in nursing on a state and national level, to keep the members in contact with nursing projects in the state of R. I. and to encourage their participation, to serve as health mediators to the campus community, and to sponsor projects for the purpose of raising funds to send members to the national student nurses convention. This year, through the enthusiastic support for Mother Daughter Weekend, S.N.O. will be able to finance the trips of four student nurses to the national convention in Detroit. Two student nurses are also being financed for the Intercollegiate Nursing Conference being held at Russell Sage College, Troy, New York. Other activities sponsored by S.N.O. have included a panel on alcoholism, a lecture by Mrs. Mildred Carroll, a registered nurse on the staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital, on nursing care of the cardiac patient, and a panel on drug addiction. Future events include a lecture and discussion on natural childbirth by Doctor Ferris, Kent County Hospital.
