THREE SALVE FACULTY NAMED OUTSTANDING
EDUCATORS OF AMERICA

Three professors from Salve Regina College, Newport, R. I., have been named Outstanding Educators of America. Mr. James Hersh of the Philosophy Department, Sister Ann Nelson of the History Department and Sister Mary Jean Tobin of the English Department were the three honored teachers according to an announcement by Dr. William Burrell, dean of the college.

The award is made annually to educators throughout the country who demonstrate "exceptional service, achievements and leadership in the field of education." Considered in their selection were their talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, community service and professional recognition.

James Hersh, a Newport resident, has been on the Salve faculty since 1970. He received his B.A. and M.A. degree at DePauw University and he is a Ph.D. candidate at the Union Graduate School, the graduate division of the University Without Walls, headquartered at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio.
