Class Day Exercises were held today. It was chilly and windy and it was difficult throughout the morning to come to a decision as to where the exercises would be held. It was finally decided to have them on the Terrace, at 2:00 P. M. (Faculty and seniors mostly wore jackets or sweaters under their academic robes, but the juniors were in college blazers, without benefit of topcoats.) Unfortunately guests were not many, and the few who came tried to hear the proceedings from just inside the Great Hall doors. The procession was led by Karen McCarty, President of Student Council; Father Reilly gave the Invocation; Mary-Elinor Reardon sang the National Anthem; the Class Day address was delivered by Theresa A. Marzilli. Academic hoods were conferred on the members of the Senior Class. Various prizes were presented to members of organizations for outstanding accomplishment during the past year. Barbara Sherry, Chairman, presented the Class Gift to S. M. Emily, for the College: A Class of 1967 Memorial Scholarship Fund of $10,000, to be funded over a three-year period.
