CONFERENCE ON "AIDS AND PUBLIC POLICY"

On Saturday, November 21, Salve Regina College and the Newport Institute will present a conference on the topic: "AIDS and Public Policy."

The pandemic disease AIDS is rapidly replacing the fear of nuclear war as the major concern of responsible citizens of the United States and the entire international community. The nuclear holocaust remains a possibility; AIDS is a present reality.

In the United States, the advent of AIDS was first viewed as a subculture concern because of its initial concentration among homosexuals and drug users. In some quarters, the disease is even viewed as a judgment of God. Such mind-sets are still distorting our ability to deal with a problem that has now entered the mainstream of American life.

Moreover, AIDS is a growing worldwide menace. To date, the medical and victim issues have claimed the most public attention. However, compassion for the victims and vigorous debate over the moral and ethical issues surrounding the transmission and treatment of AIDS is not enough. We need to develop a whole range of public policies to deal with this enormous threat to the social, economic, political, psychological and moral fabric of American society.

Offering their views on the AIDS problem will be the following speakers:

Congressman William E. Dannemeyer has represented the 39th District of California for five consecutive terms. A long-time advocate of fiscal responsibility at the Federal level, and of national energy independence, he has also become a strong leader in finding legislative solutions to protect the nation's citizenry from AIDS. Mr. Dannemeyer is senior member of the Committee on Energy and Commerce and serves on three other subcommittees as well--Health and the Environment; Energy and Power; and Commerce, Consumer Protections and Competitiveness. He holds a Doctorate of Law from the University of California.

Dr. Cecil H. Fox is a Senior Scientist in the U.S. Public Health Service (PHS) at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md. A veteran of 15 years in the PHS (whose officers are appointed by the Senate and on-call 24 hours a day), Dr. Fox holds several advanced degrees, including a Ph.D. in Biochemistry from the University of Lund in Sweden. An expert on experimental pathology, Dr. Fox will soon participate in an international meeting in Helsinki, Finland, devoted to seeking new, and quicker, means of detection for AIDS.

Mr. Mauro Montoya is Legal Services Director for the AIDS Program of the Whitman-Walker Clinic in Washington, D.C. In the past eighteen months, he has represented over 750 clients with AIDS in a wide variety of cases involving patients' rights, discrimination, privacy issues, etc. Mr. Montoya has frequently testified before Congress and spoken to many groups around the country on the AIDS issue. A recognized expert on the legal problems of AIDS victims, he has been quoted extensively in such major publications as the Washington Post, New York Times, and Business Week. Mr. Montoya holds a J.D. degree from the National Law Center of George Washington University.

The conference will be held in the O'Hare Auditorium from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and is open to the entire College community as well as to the general public. Admission is free for students, faculty and staff. Lunch in Miley will cost $5.00. For further information, contact Dr. Heath Twichell at extension 249.
